Drilling started Friday

Hunt brother's company attempting county's deepest gas, sulfur well

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Penrod Drilling Co., a subsidiary of Hunt Energy Corp. of Dallas, Tex., Friday began drilling the deepest well ever attempted in Hancock County just off Bayou LaCrosse Road.

The eventual 23,000-foot, multimillion dollar well, located inside the National Space Technology Laboratories' acoustic buffer zone, is expected to reach the sulfur-rich Smackover formation in eight to nine months which will yield a pharmaceutical grade sulfur and natural gas.

The Dallas oil corporation is owned by billionaires Nelson B. and William H. Hunt who allegedly bought 42 million ounces of silver through a veiled Bermuda-based company said to have led to the recent collapse of the silver market.

William Hunt told a U.S. House of Representative's subcommittee Friday he did not 'attempt to corner, squeeze or manipulate the silver market' but purchased the precious metal as a hedge on 'rampant inflation' and a lack of confidence in the U.S. dollar.

In testimony Friday before a House subcommittee, the Hunt brother's testimony charged commodity exchanges with the collapse of the silver market.

Regarding Hancock County's deep well, Mike Blackwell, the Hunt Corp.'s district geophysicist in Jackson, said Friday, "We should be spudding (beginning to drill) the well today."

"We will test the Smackover formation which lies in the vicinity. This is a very rank wildcat exploratory well," Blackwell stated.

Stanley King, Mississippi Oil and Gas Board geologist, reported, "The well, named the No. 1 Crosby Well, is located in the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of Section 22, Township Eight South, Range 15 West of Hancock County."

Blackwell said, "It's right in the middle of the Waveland Field (a 30-square-mile Mooringsport Gas Field). This well will definitely run over $3 million and take at least eight to nine months to complete."

King stated, "The Smackover formation is their objective. Hunt has been aggressive in the Smackover region."

"This will be by far the deepest well so far in Hancock County," the state geologist said.

Blackwell reported, "There is a Smackover structural formation we will be drilling on. There are no nearby wells to hint of anything that could be good."

The Hunt geophysicist said the well would 'cause some economic impact on the community' if the well is successful. King explained, "This well will produce a 35 percent hydrogen-sulfide gas and natural gas. They will process the gas and produce a pharmaceutical-grade sulfur."

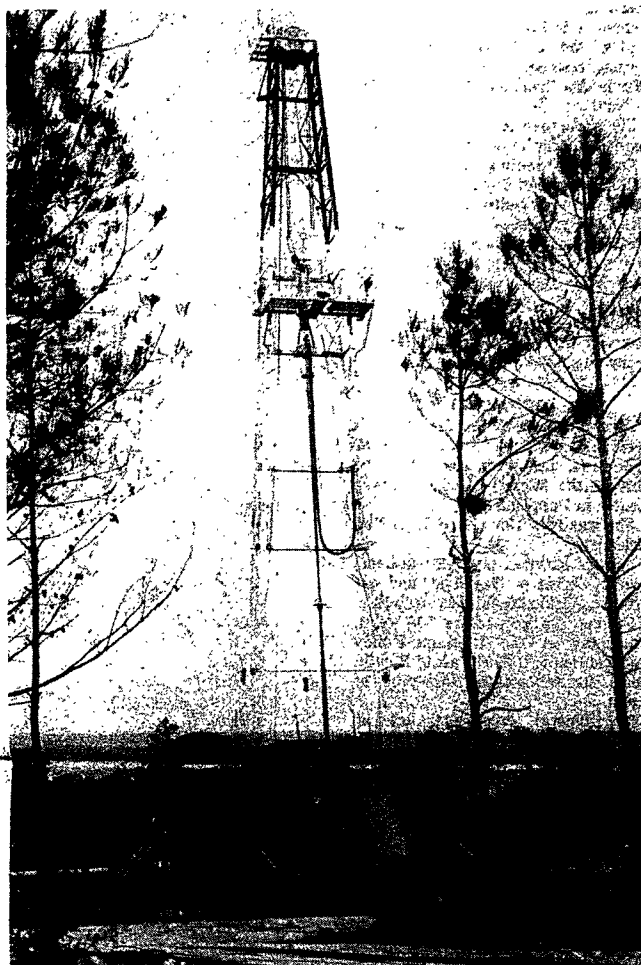

However, in reference to the well's sulfur production, Blackwell said, "The only significance it has is if we find it—then monetarily hydrogen sulfide is significant."

"It will all flow out as gas and we will need a plant to separate it," Blackwell added.

King reported, "The Smackover region traditionally has extremely high pressure—roughly 10,000 pounds-per-square inch."

"Because of the high pressure they will have to seat the drill string (pipe) before reaching the high pressure (Smackover) zone. To seat the drill string, cement will have to be Drilling began Friday on the 23,000-foot deep well. Hunt Energy Corp. officials hope to encounter the Smackover formation which is a natural gas and hydrogen-sulfide trend. A Gulfport Memorial Hospital spokesman said Saturday afternoon Garrett Hassell, 17, son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Hassell Jr., 203 Oak Park Drive, Pass Christian was in fair condition, suffering multiple abrasions and fractures of pelvis and undergoing surgery for fractures of both arms. Danton Landess of Baton Rouge, driver of the van, told police his vehicle had stalled in the outside westbound lane when Hassell, driving the motorcycle, rear-ended the van. Landess was not injured. In addition to Mobile Medic and Bay St. Louis police, Pass Christian police, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Mississippi Highway Patrol responded to the accident. Wave Pool opens today

By RICH ADAMS

Buccannier State Park's Wave Pool, nearly two years in construction, will open to the public today at 11 a.m., according to Park Manager Greg Smith.

Official grand opening ceremonies will be conducted Saturday, May 10, Smith reported.

Admission to the facility is $4-per-day for adults and $2.50 for children, with color-coded wristbands issued for readmittance the same day, Smith added.

The pool, designed by Architect Fred Wagner of Bay St. Louis, uses a series of four 75-horsepower motors with fans attached which force air into chambers, pushing water out of the bottom of the deep end of the pool.

"No mechanical parts ever touch the water," Smith said Friday.

"There is absolutely no undertow, and a sufficient number of lifeguards will be assigned to the pool at all times to insure safety," he continued.

"An emergency cut-off switch will be located at each of the two elevated lifeguard chairs to turn the wave mechanism off in case of an

Longo praises wastewater bill

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Waveland Mayor John Longo was elated over Mississippi House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee approval of a bill Tuesday allowing the formation of a Waveland-Hancock County sewerage management commission.

Longo commented, "I am so proud of the action taken by State Representative J.P. Compretta in fulfilling what I felt was an obligation to the people of Hancock to pursue the development of a regional wastewater program for Hancock County."

The Waveland Mayor said he now hopes the private bill will clear all hurdles.

"As most people know for some years now I have fought for home rule in solving the pollution problems through the most effective means. I have full faith that the people of Hancock County can handle this program," Longo said.

"In all humility and sincerity, I would not have stood a chance without the cooperation of my Board of Aldermen, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and my staff," Longo allowed.

Hancock County Board of Supervisor President A.A. (Dolph) Keller stated Wednesday, "I'm glad to hear they approved the sewerage treatment bill for the county. With a local sewerage commission it will cost a third less than if we went along the Gulf Coast progressively circulated around the pipe," the state geologist explained. "If this is not done the entire drill string would pop out of the ground and it still could happen if higher than normal pressures are experienced," King added.

Blackwell said, "We are taking extra safety precautions in drilling this well. Anytime you drill deep wells into 17,000-18,000 feet or below you will have high pressure or heat problems." "Anytime you get to this depth you have to monitor constantly," the Hunt geophysicist stated.

When queried about the safety to residents near the deep well, Blackwell replied, "I don't think this well will be dangerous to people living in the area, but it will be dangerous for people working on the rig."

King said, "Most of the drilling in Mississippi and the nation will have to be at the deeper levels. We have punched out all of the shallow oil and gas reservoirs."

"Mississippi's oil and gas production has been on a decline since 1956 when production peaked, but we're on our way back up again with the recent increased gas production—particularly due to Marion County wells," the state geologist explained.

King reported at the end of December the Waveland Field (the 13,500 foot Mooringsport Field) has produced two and one-half billion cubic feet of natural gas.

"The Waveland Field is going strong, but it's hard to say how long it will last," King stated.

emergency," he added.

The pool will be open each Saturday and Sunday in May from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m., and will begin operation seven days a week on June 1, Smith added.

In addition, the pool will also be open Monday, May 26, the official Memorial Day holiday, Smith reported.

Wave action of the pool will run for 12 minutes and then shut off for 10 minutes "for safety reasons," the park manager said.

"Experience at other wave pools has proven that people tire easily in wave action, and the 10 minute break will allow swimmers to rest. Instead of depending on the swimmers to regulate time spent in waves, we are going to do this for their own safety," Smith reported.

"There will be no diving into the pool because the maximum depth is only eight feet," he added.

No depth divider is in the pool because, according to Smith, a rope could not be used due to the waves.

However, the park manager noted, water depths will be marked on the side of the pool this summer.

Lifeguards will decide when a swimmer is in too deep water, he added.

In addition to the pool, the facility features a concession stand, souvenir shop, first aid station, and a series of staged platforms for sun bathers.

A limited number of lounge tables and chairs are available at the pool, and Smith said reclining lounge chairs will be purchased for next summer.

No bottled beverages will be allowed in the pool compound, Smith said.

Authority. Our people will also have more control with a local commission."

In talking about Bay St. Louis, Longo said, "I would like to think Bay St. Louis will join in with Waveland and Hancock County, but I do wish them well no matter the way they go."

Representative Compretta stated, "We wanted to give Waveland and alternative as Waveland's sewerage facility was built with the understanding that it would be adequate to assure the city would meet the 1983 federal clean water standards."

The bill allows the county to form a sewerage commission separate from the Gulf Coast Regional Wastewater Authority.

Longo concluded, "I am delighted with Representative Compretta's timing and his delivery was excellent."

DON'T SCARE FISH

"Shhhh! You'll scare the fish away." Ever have a fishing partner tell you to be quiet or to sit still in the boat because you're spooking the fish instead of catching them? Take his advice because unusual noises will frighten fish away, and scared fish aren't likely to strike lures. Fish live in a difficult world; something is always trying to catch them. Man isn't their only predator. Birds, some animals and other fish continually prey on fish for food. Realizing that many fishermen are not aware of the things they do which can frighten fish, Mercury outdoors angling experts offer some suggestions to help them avoid mistakes which can adversely affect their success.

First be aware that your presence on the water is unusual in itself. Fish perceive danger from something as simple as a floating shadow on the water.

When the sun is low on the horizon, the shadow of your boat, yourself, even your fishing rod as you cast, often stretches far away from you and can be seen by fish.

Avoid this by fishing toward the sun during these early and late daylight hours.

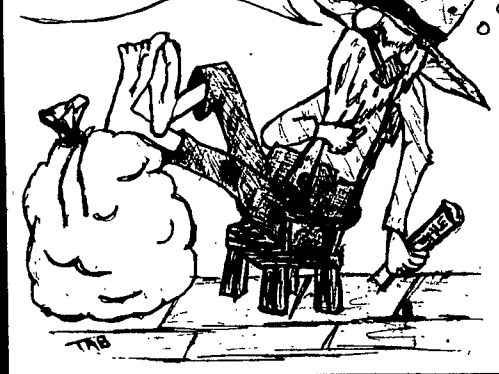

Noise travels far and fast in water. Carpet inside your boat will help deaden noises, but the best remedy is to be aware of the potential for unusual sounds and avoid making them.

Light-colored clothes are easily seen above the water by fish.

Don't wear anything white. Try to fish in neutral colored clothing - gray, tan or light green.

The other birthday prize was won by Leona Spence.

Don't forget now - the birthday games party, sponsored by the Nutrition Department is held the fourth Monday of every month.

May is Senior Citizens Month so there will be many special events during the month.

One of the main events is the Bazaar on May 6th. It will be held at the Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Any Hancock County Senior Citizen as well as classes are eligible to set up a display or sale table. You should contact the Center, though, so that space can be allotted.

Most of our classes will have tables. A beautiful handmade quilt, afghan and original oil painting will be raffled as well as crafts and paintings being sold.

RSVP will have a coffee house in their office and will be selling coffee, desserts, lemonade, and barbecue beef sandwiches.

We will also be drawing for door prizes every hour, but you must be at the center to win. Everyone is invited, so plan on coming out and staying awhile. There will be many more special events during Senior Citizens month, so keep reading this column for more details.

EDITORIAL

A good business opportunity!

The continuous deterioration of Beach Boulevard could lead to a very prosperous venture for an enterprising individual or group.

A small investment in several mules and a few corrals in addition to several saddles would be about all that is needed. We realize that our unemployment rate is below that of the state and nation, according to March's report and this venture could really cut the number of Hancock Countians who are out of work to almost none.

There probably would have to be a station at US-90 and North Beach, Bay St. Louis and another at US-90 and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland. A rest area could probably be set up in the vicinity of Coleman Avenue.

Workers will be needed to handle the mules and run the concession stands, lead the groups to the Wave Pool and park. All this would increase employment.

Our County has been productive in soybeans in recent years, so we are sure oats and grains could be grown as well as hay for the mules, and that would give our farmers a big boost.

The reason we say use mules for the trek down Beach Boulevard is because they are very sure footed animals. They will be able to travel over the busted concrete, up and over the washouts it won't be long before all vehicular traffic, even four wheel drives, will not be able to travel over that obstacle course.

We have a feeling it will be anything out of the ordinary having mules supplying transportation to the Wave Pool and Buccaneer State Park because they are used for travel in National Parks in remote areas.

By the year 2,000 when the Beach Boulevard is completed, and it sure looks like it will take that long at the rate no reconstruction is going on, all the mules can be retired.

Serious deterioration of Beach Boulevard began with a spring storm in April, 1979 and over a year has transpired and meanwhile several other storms have added to the damages.

If memory serves us correctly, in the 1930's when the seawall was constructed, a special tax was placed on gasoline for payment of the bonds.

We are still paying this special petrol tax but it has now been transferred to the Hancock County Port and Harbor operation.

We realize the Hancock County Board of Supervisors spends thousands a year on the sand beach and road. It is our feeling there should be a special fund set up just for routine maintenance of the beach and road.

The threat here of storms each year and routine wear should warrant maintenance funds each year even after the road is restored.

CLOGGED DRAIN - One of the many natural drains in Bay St. Louis overgrown with weeds, debris and even trees in some areas is one of the main causes for lasting flooding during recent rains. Some elbow grease may be needed for water to drain properly if ditches are overgrown with trees, weeds and filled with trash. The use of machines is fine in cleaning certain ditches, but there are instances where nothing is better in solving drain problems than a shovel, rake and a little muscle.

We have been noticing a different smell in our drinking water in Bay St. Louis during the past few weeks. We also have noticed a discoloration of our lavatories and commodes and are really concerned if the water is safe to drink.

Friday afternoon we were assured by the State Board of Health office in Bay St. Louis that the water is o.k.

We are hoping there is not anything wrong with our drinking water.

It was not hard for us to find reporters interested in covering the Miss USA contestants when they were at the Wave Pool at Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

There are a lot of folks along the Coast who have put a lot of effort in helping put this fine endeavor together. We really want to thank them all for a very fine job. We know quite a few are from Hancock County.

Just think of all the publicity our Wave Pool will receive and how many will be interested in visiting it, if the road is still open.

We feel it is only fitting to extend our congratulations to Keith Folse upon his receiving his master's degree with only four years of college.

While a student at Bay High, Keith worked part time at the Sea Coast Echo in our circulation department. We think his achievement is something to be proud of when you consider he is the youngest person ever to receive a master's degree from the University of Mississippi Southern in Hattiesburg.

We know the administration and teachers of Bay High must all be proud of Keith and his achievements. We know one teacher in particular who is all smiles.

We understand from Edgar Perez, Echo managing editor, that the Gumbo event in Washington last week was a tremendous success.

It seems that more Congressmen and Senators gather to try gumbo than at any other one place in the Nation's Capitol except for a Joint Session of Congress.

We think the folks from White Cypress can be proud of their 'Gumbo Ambassadors of Goodwill.'

We can hardly wait for October to roll around for the annual Nacaise Crossing Gumbo Festival at White Cypress here in Hancock County.

We feel no one was more deserving than Willie Bradley of his selection as the State Star Teacher in driver's education for the year.

Coach Bradley, as he is known by most folks, has been teaching driver education for 20 years and has taught probably more how to drive than anyone else in Bay St. Louis.

We have been told by many adults who have taken special

Law enforcement agencies thanked for professionalism

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, MS

Dear Sir:

I would like to publicly express gratitude to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, Deputy Sheriff Delbert Seay, Prosecuting Attorney John Genin and Justice Court Judges Lee Klein and Horatio Frierson for their professionalism and competence, as well as cooperative attitude displayed at all times by each of them, in the investigation of and subsequently arrest of suspects in the theft of live trees from Government property in the NSTL Buffer Zone.

Through their efforts, full restitution has been effected.

I would also like to advise the public that, even on those few acres of Government-owned property in the Buffer Zone, as well as on the vast majority owned by private parties, written permission should be obtained before entering thereon and that thefts, vandalism and littering, whether on Government property or that privately owned, may well result in prosecutions, criminal and/or civil, to the full extent of the law.

Sincerely yours,
Edwin R. Ling

Dear Mr. Adams:

Thank you for the generous donation you made to the Spring Festival held at Waveland Elementary School on April 18, 1980. All the profits from the Fair are going to be used by the Parent Teacher's Organization for the benefit of the Waveland Elementary School children and without your help our Fair would not have been such a big success. Once again, thank you for your excellent support.

Sincerely,

driver courses under the direction of Coach Bradley, just how wonderful an instructor he really is.

Coach Bradley has a AAA certificate in driver's education, and the only degree higher than that is a PhD, so he is very well versed in his profession.

Another area in which Coach Bradley has really shown his abilities is as coach of Bay Senior High's girl's basketball team for many years.

We are happy to know Coach Bradley for many years, and again say to him congratulations on your being honored by your peers.

Health Tip

From the American Medical Association

Awareness is key

May is National High Blood Pressure Month

Ignorance is not always bliss. Ignorance of high blood pressure can lead to stroke, heart attack, or heart and kidney failure, says the American Heart Association.

An estimated 34 million Americans have high blood pressure and, in many cases, it is undetected and untreated.

Although the basic cause of high blood pressure has not yet been identified, usually it can be controlled. A wide variety of drugs are now available and, in some cases, modification of diet and exercise alone can reduce blood pressure.

The permanent damage from untreated high blood pressure is well known. Why then are so many otherwise well-informed Americans ignoring this danger? The American Heart Association says, high blood pressure is often called the "silent disease."

Generally, it has no symptoms and, tragically, it is easy to ignore. It can work unseen for years impairing normal function of the heart and arteries, as well as, damaging other body organs.

You can feel good, even be young, and still have high blood pressure. No age or sex is immune and black Americans are almost 50 percent more likely to have it than white Americans.

May is National High Blood Pressure Month. A two-pronged attack on the "silent disease" must be initiated, says The Heart Association.

First, have your blood pressure checked. Second, if your pressure is high, follow your doctor's advice about medication and treatment. Remember, only your doctor can tell if you have high blood pressure and it is essential to adhere to the program he specifically designs for you.

He will encourage you to eat well-balanced, low-cholesterol, low-fat meals; reduce the amount of sodium (salt) in your diet; quit smoking cigarettes; reach and maintain proper body weight; and follow an exercise program individually outlined for you.

For more information on high blood pressure, contact the American Heart Association-Mississippi Affiliate, P.O. Box 10003, Jackson, Mississippi 39200. As a team, you and your doctor can control high blood pressure.

News from RSVP

By THERESA JAMES, DIRECTOR

On Thursday, April 24th, 35 RSVP Volunteers and Staff traveled by chartered bus to Jackson to the Voluntary Action Fair.

Brother Canisius Schell was one of 30 volunteers, state wide, to receive an award from Governor Winter for outstanding service to his community.

He was nominated by this office and we are very proud of him. Past winners were Carl Baldenhofer, Esther Oschmann and this year Brother Canisius won.

His group of teenagers known as "Project Do" also won a certificate for having been nominated, also by this office. The 30 winners attended a luncheon at the Governor's Mansion with the Governor as host.

Carl Baldenhofer, RSVP art teacher, presented Governor Winter with an original oil painting of shrimp boats. The governor was pleasantly surprised and told Carl that he would hang the painting in the mansion so everyone visiting him could enjoy it.

The Singing Seniors, all RSVP Volunteers, were invited to attend this occasion and sing gospel songs. They performed admirably and left the audience with requests for "More." We are happy to say our singers have a reputation for beautiful singing all over the State of Mississippi.

After a day long series of entertaining groups which our volunteers enjoyed very much, we returned to Bay St. Louis happy but tired.

When attending such events as this the volunteers stated that they were happy to be a part of RSVP where talents and experiences of retirees can be channeled into serving their communities.

RSVP Volunteers will assist with an "Open House and Bazaar" at the multipurpose center Tuesday, May 6th by sponsoring a "dessert and coffee" in the RSVP office from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Homemade desserts, coffee and lemonade will be available, so come out and meet our volunteers and visit the center.

Also, to celebrate Older Americans' Month, RSVP will award volunteers special pins and ribbons at the American Legion Hall in Waveland, Friday, May 9th, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Entertainment will be furnished by the male chorus from Keesler Field and Jane Kennedy, deputy director of the area agency on aging will speak and present the awards.

All RSVP Volunteers will receive an invitation in the mail and are urged to attend.

USM professor examines nutrition and learning

EDITORS NOTE: This is the first of a series of four articles based on interviews with Dr. Reed R. Mottley, University of Southern Mississippi professor of reading in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, within the school of Education and Psychology. Mottley has been chosen as a member of the national Nutrition and Learning Committee sponsored by the International Reading Association.

Numerous articles have appeared in the last few years asking the question "Why can't Johnny read?" and quoting lowered test scores and performance by students from grade school to college.

Many possibilities for the drop in student performance have been advanced from television to the changing make-up of the American family.

Dr. Reed Mottley

University of Southern Mississippi during professor, who has made many speeches nationwide on the need for more parental involvement in their children's education, thinks turning off the television or spending more time helping with homework may not be as important as parents locking away the junk food.

Mottley, on a 10-member national committee on Nutrition and Learning sponsored by the International Reading Association, said, "We intend to take a look at what the medical profession, nutritionists, educators, independent researchers and the food companies are saying about nutrition's effect on children's behavior and intellectual functioning."

The purpose of the IRA committee is not to establish ideal nutritional diets, but to stimulate the importance of the public becoming better educated on nutritional habits in relation to learning behavior.

NUTRITION AND LEARNING

More and more doctors, scientists, and homemakers are becoming aware of the importance of diet as a preventive medicine. The general public is becoming informed on the potential dangers of chemical preservatives, synthetic additives, artificial coloring and flavoring in our foods.

Also an over abundance of salt, the use of sugar, and refined (white) flour, and low roughage foods are becoming targets for nutritionists interested in improving the diet of Americans.

Now educators are seriously considering the harmful effects that the substandard diet of many children may possibly have on their ability to learn and behavior patterns. Many studies are under way to determine the relationship between certain harmful foods, such as sugar, and a child's behavior and intellectual functioning.

ADDITIVES

Mottley cites the following research on additives by one medical doctor, Dr. Benjamin Feingold, who has specialized in nutrition.

Dr. Ben Feingold of the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in San Francisco is becoming well known for his work on nutrition's link with behavior and intellect.

In a recent article on hyperactivity and learning disabilities, Feingold states, "of all obse-ve reactions to such compounds (synthetic colors and flavors) the largest group of the most 4,000 known food additives), perhaps the most critical are the behavioral disturbances."

A 1965 (now outdated) list of additives shows 33 kinds of preservatives, 39 thickeners, 34 food colors and 1,610 synthetic flavorings.

"Except for terminology, there is no difference between certain compounds used as medicines or when they are entered into food as additives," Feingold says. "And these additives have a similar effect on behavioral and emotional patterns."

Mottley concurs that behavioral and emotional side effects alone will have an impact on learning.

Feingold has noted adverse reactions in his patients' respiratory, nervous, skeletal and gastrointestinal systems from the additives which some people tolerate better than others.

SUGAR

The evidence against sugar as a contributing factor in such diseases as diabetes, obesity, coronary thrombosis, varicose veins and tooth decay, among others is staggering, Mottley said.

Now evidence that sugar has an adverse effect on human behavior is being compiled. They also plan to compare the diets of two groups of urban and two groups of rural school children.

Mottley urges parents and teachers to make themselves aware of what children are eating and its possible harmful effect on their mental growth.

He stresses that parents and teachers of pre-school and primary grade children educate themselves on good nutritional habits. It becomes difficult to get older individuals to change their eating habits other than on a temporary basis.

Theosophists open discussion series

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Theosophical Society is offering an 'Inquirers Course on Theosophy' at 7:30 p.m. on four successive Thursdays, beginning May 8 in the D'Iberville-Harrison County Library.

"The series is designed to encourage participants to explore the mysteries of the ages, learn more about the great adventures of life and how to discover their roles in the universal plan," according to Ms. Donna Stenum of North Biloxi, program coordinator.

Group meditations will follow the discussions, Ms. Stenum reports.

Cost of the course text is $1.50, she said.

In addition, the Gulf Coast Theosophists Wednesday, May 28 will present Dr. MaryJane Newcomb, a national lecturer for the Theosophical Society in America which is headquartered in Wheaton, Ill., in a discussion of the power of music at the Gulfport Library on US-90.

That program, slated to begin at 7:30 p.m., is also free of charge and will include a showing of the film 'The Esoteric Nature of Music.'

For further information on the society's activities on the Coast, call Ms. Stenum at 388-9170.

Jehovah's Witnesses eye Coast convention

Jehovah's Witnesses recently revealed plans to hold a district convention at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum in Biloxi this summer.

Spokesman for the group, Cedric Gill, representing the Gulf Coast congregations, said the four-day conventions would run from June 12 to 15.

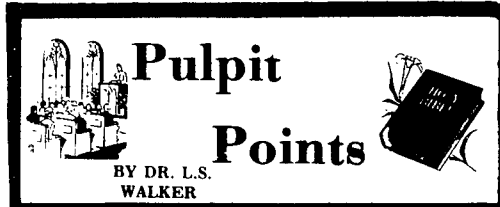

"This will be one of more than 100 such conventions planned for the United States this summer, and we anticipate that more than 975,000 people will attend," Gill said.

"The theme of the convention will be 'Divine Love,' Gill said, 'and we can't think of anything that is more needed in the world today than love. We are confident the program will help all in attendance to display this quality better within the family, the community, and the nation.'

Gill said approximately 8,000 delegates are anticipated at the Biloxi convention.

"As crisis after crisis comes and goes both at home and abroad, it reveals how much hatred exists in the world," Gill continued. "However, the Founder of Christianity said love would be the identifying mark of true Christians. Where such love exists you do not find crime, divorce nor delinquency running rampant. But it is something you must work at and these conventions are designed to help individuals and families do just that."

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S. WALKER

In a Very trying time in the life of the prophet Elijah, the angel of the Lord brought food to strengthen him; because, he said, "the journey is too great for thee." I Kings 19:7. I have not found life easy, but I have found it purposeful, challenging, hopeful and most interesting. I would like to share with my readers a few useful steps in purposeful living:

1. Recognize an important purpose. Life without purpose is meaningless. Without a purpose that is praiseworthy and suggestive of a deep sense of responsibility, you are likely to accomplish little for yourself or others.

If you drift here and there with changing circumstances, not knowing where you are going or what your goals are, you are likely to be mastered by whatever impulse comes to you at the moment. Your life is without design, and without definite goals to work for. Hence, you may move in one direction today and another direction tomorrow without serious regard to your destination.

2. Make no commitment without much prayer. "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths." Prov. 3:5-6. Let the Word of God light your way; and the Holy Spirit be your strength and comfort to direct your footsteps.

Believe that life will be good for you if you purpose to let it be so. Realize that life is not all easy, that there are difficult paths to travel, and discouragements of every kind will be experienced. Keep on living your best, whatever others may say, confident that hard knocks can be a blessing to you. If today seems gloomy, look with confidence and faith in God for a brighter tomorrow.

There is always something better tomorrow for the children of God. Just be sure you are one of His children!

"For ye are the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus" Gal. 3:26. And rejoice in the promise of Romans 8:28: "And ye know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose."

3. Be awake to opportunities to serve, to increase your understanding and appreciation. Cultivate and interest in people about you, think of the marvel and glory of creation, the beauty of nature, great works of art, of music, literature, and other creative works which continue to bless men.

"And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not. As we have there opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith" Gal. 6:9-10.

4. Recognize the fact that we are not "sufficient of our selves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God." II Cor. 3:5.

Remember that the Bible speaks of life as a "fight," not a "frolic." Walk close to God, and you will always be sure of good company!

Afraid of the hatred.

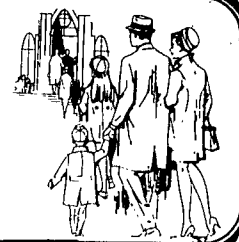

Q. I used to live with my in-laws and we never could get alone. They would say things to torment me and my three children. I lived under a lot of stress and strain, and it made me live in this hatred for them. I've prayed a lot but I don't think I'm believing like I should.

President Virginia MacMillan, assisted by her vice-presidents Ben Benvenuti and Brennin Collins; her secretary Melanie Cuevas; and her treasurer Martha Smith, organized a seder meal and Mass for Holy Thursday in preparation for Easter, and a going-away Mass and celebration for Father Louis Lohan and Father Pat Mockler.

Work projects have included refurbishing the CYO room and conducting a bake sale with profits going to the Saltillo Mission in Mexico.

Recreational activities have included a Pizza Hut Sip-A-Thon, goofy golf, a dance at St. Joseph's Parish in Gulfport and a pizza-eating contest. A beach party and overnight on May 10th will add to the Many activities of the membership drive.

Official installation of the officers will be held Sunday, April 27, in the cafeteria.

Area students, Pearl River J.C. newspaper win top state awards

Pearl River College's Dixie Drawl, for the fifth time in a span of seven years, again won the coveted General Excellence Award as the best Mississippi Junior college newspaper recently at the annual Spring Awards Conference of the Mississippi Junior College Press Association in Biloxi.

The Drawl staff won seven total awards, including six first places and for the fifth time in the past seven years the PRC paper walked away with the General Excellence trophy in Division One.

Suzanne McSwain, Bogalusa, assistant feature editor for the Drawl was elected vice-president of the MJCPA, and Bob Wright, Bay St. Louis; Connie Stanford, Poplarville; and Paul Robinson, Bay St. Louis were all in runoff for other MJCPA positions.

"Our students did an outstanding job," said Larry L. Stanford, advisor to the Drawl, "it took hustle, a lot of dedication, and many, many hours of hard work to gather this many awards."

Stanford said he was particularly pleased with this group because only Billy Reinhardt, Waveland, the Drawl's managing editor; and photographer Tom Balch, Poplarville, are sophomores.

The remainder of the board of editors and staff writers are freshman or first year journalism students.

The awards collected this past week by the 1979-80 Drawl staff enabled the winning newspaper tradition to continue at Pearl River.

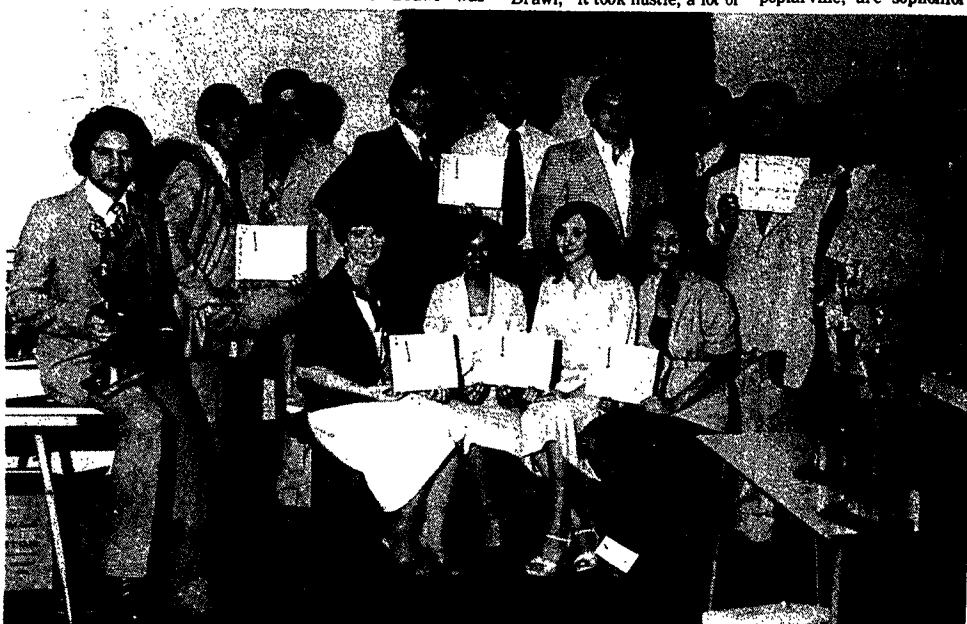

In the past nine years the Drawl has won 66 state awards, had 15 state officers and was first overall in 1974, 1975, 1976, 1978, 1980, and placed second in 1977 and 1979; fourth in 1973 and third in 1972.

The entire staff can claim first place for Overall General Excellence and Division One General Excellence.

Reinhardt received the first place award for make-up and design and Mark Proulx, co-news editor, Bay St. Louis, received first place in news. C.A. Roe, Carriere, won first place in editorial writing and Bob Wright, sports editor, won first in sports writing and third in column competition. Eighteen junior college newspapers are eligible to compete in the MJCPA Awards program.

The newspapers and individual entries were judged by three Illinois newspapers. State Advisor Dianne Sanders, Northwest Junior College, handled the competition chores.

DIXIE DRAWL NUMBER ONE AGAIN—Pearl River Junior College's Dixie Drawl was named the best junior college newspaper in Mississippi Saturday at the annual Spring Awards Conference of the Mississippi Junior College Press Association. The Drawl won the overall General Excellence Award for the fifth time in the past seven years, and walked away with six first places, southern vice-president office and Division One trophy for the sixth time in seven years. The Drawl staff includes, standing, from left, Billy Reinhardt, Waveland, managing editor, first place in make-up and design; Bob Wright, Bay St. Louis, sports editor, first place in

Space Shuttle milestones met

The Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME) testing program at the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) near Bay St. Louis recently achieved major milestones leading to engine certification and the first manned orbital flight of the shuttle.

On March 28 the total SSME testing time exceeded the goal of 65,000 seconds when engine 2004 was successfully fired for 241 seconds. Total testing time as of April 21 was in excess of 69,500 seconds.

Earlier, on March 14, that same engine successfully completed a full power level (FPL) certification test at 109 percent—a first for the NSTL testing program and a major step toward engine certification. During that 610-second test, 2004 ran at 109 percent thrust level for 360 seconds.

That success was repeated in firings April 14 and April 19 at the same duration and thrust levels. The three-test series will be repeated later on engine 0009.

The object of the FPL test series is to get 1,080 seconds at 109 percent," said Boyce Mix, Marshall Space Flight Center SSME Program resident manager. "This will give additional payload capability to the fifth shuttle launch. The series will demonstrate that the engine is capable of supporting additional payload." The tests will also show that the SSME is capable of operating at full power during an abort situation.

Meanwhile, engine 0009 is undergoing its first preliminary flight certification (PFC) series. "Of the 5,000 seconds required, we've got approximately 900 seconds left to do," Mix said.

When the first PFC series is complete, the engine will be removed for inspection. After the inspection, a second PFC series of 13 tests totaling 5,000 seconds will be conducted on 0009.

While engine 0009 is undergoing inspections, engine 0010 will be installed for a three-test acceptance series. "This engine will be used as a flight spare for the Columbia, the first orbital shuttle. Engine 2004 completed its second PFC series earlier this month.

Mix said that following their current respective series, engines 2004 and 0009 will then undergo similar PFC series but the thrust level will be upgraded from 100 to 102 percent.

Test activity at NSTL is conducted under the auspices of the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center with NSTL providing technical and logistical support. The prime contractor in charge of individual engine testing is the Rocketdyne Division, Rockwell International Corp.
